Monday | Nov. 11 7 pm | IU Cinema

Ellen MacKay from the IU Department of English will introduce the film.

This rarely screened version of King Lear is directed by soviet-era film maker Grigori Kozintsev and is hailed by many critics as the finest realization yet of Shakespeare's greatest tragedy.

Free tickets are available in the IU Auditorium Box Office during regular business hours as well as the IU Cinema lobby one hour prior to the screening.

presented by:

THE INDIANA UNIVERSITY CINEMA

thēm·es·ter
Connectedness: Networks in a Complex World
Fall 2013
IU College of Arts and Sciences